Barely 14 hours after resigning...

Nitish Kumar back as Bihar CM

Bihar Governor Keshri Nath Tripathi (right) is seen administering oath to JD(U) National President Nitish Kumar as Bihar Chief Minister at Raj Bhawan in Patna this morning.

Patna, July 27 - Fourteen hours after he resigned as the Chief Minister of Bihar stating he could no longer continue amid allegations of corruption in his government, Janata Dal (United) leader Nitish Kumar came back as Chief Minister when he took oath of office this morning. Nitish resigned over a CBI FIR against his Deputy and ally Lalu Prasad Yadav's son Tejashwi Yadav.

Nitish is back with the BJP, whose Sushil Modi was also sworn-in; he gets his old post of Deputy Chief Minister back. Other new Ministers will take oath after Nitish wins the trust vote likely to be held tomorrow. "Our decision is in Bihar's interest, for its development," Nitish said.

Late last night, Nitish Kumar met Bihar Governor Keshri Nath Tripathi a second time — he had met him to resign earlier in the evening — and staked claim to form government with the support of BJP and smaller parties. "We have submitted a letter with support of 132 legislators," Sushil Modi told reporters after they met the Governor.

Tejashwi Yadav also met the Governor to try and stop this morning's oath ceremony.

Cost of convenience

Mankind has proceeded too far and too deep in the matter of minimising sweat and toil to satisfy the various needs in daily life as well as chasing convenience in virtually every sphere of human activity. The push-button itch is too hard to get rid of. While invention of the wheel by an unknown human, believed to have happened in reality about 3,000 years ago (not reckoning with the times of India's epics between 5,000 years and 10,000 years vintage) and emergence of electricity in June 1752, credited to Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790) have enabled innovative human beings to create the now-all-too-familiar means to convenience, that got kicked off with a) the use of wheel by the potter and b) the incandescent bulb emitting light, both inventions and their inventors are hardly bestowed gratitude by later generations until this day. Gratefulness is not accorded its due place as a virtue in the minds of human beings.

One may need unbounded power of imagination and rich vocabulary to describe a world and life of its masses if the wheel and electricity had not taken birth, apart from the underlying human ingenuity in exploiting them, achieving convenience, call it the main outcome or a mere side outcome, leading finally to acts of meeting life's needs with minimum sweating and toiling, if not without either.

One may dismiss as superfluous to describe the ocean of changes, more welcomed than appreciated, that are common place are happening without being intently noticed. Automobiles virtually grabbing the space of walkers, piped drinking water instead of drawing it from wells (considered to be primitive), motorised tillers pushing the bullock-driven-ploughs to pages of history, cooking gas taking away the drudgery of firing the hearth with coal or firewood, weaving fabrics by power-looms and a host of modern events in a long list, thanks to advances in science and technology, cannot be missed as examples of the conquest of convenience in all spheres of human activity.

There is no stopping the march of man's ingenious quest for satisfying his wants. Even as there are no signs of addressing the grim problem of unemployment in all regions of the world, including India, two more tools, creation by man himself, namely Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Automation have taken birth. Voices have been raised in informed circles expressing loss of jobs and thus the unemployment scene to panic point even as AI and Automation are yet to be assessed for their role in stoking laziness. The resultant convenience hides what it costs to the nation.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

In this cocktail of a world, being multilingual is a definite advantage and even a life skill. And many Indians are naturally multilingual. Learning different languages not only offers the well-known benefits of keeping our cognitive skills and mental agility sharp, but also helps us connect with and survive in multicultural contexts. And by nature, humans are made to learn and practise more than one language. So not using that skill is to neglect one's potential. The workplace of the future is extremely plastic with everything 'multi.' The idea of an office is changing by the minute and most conversations are virtual with colleagues conferencing in from different parts of the world. Business communication no longer encompasses just excellent 'English-speaking' skills. There is a whole retinue of sub-skills that are key to this —multilingualism is one of it. — Anupama Raju in The Hindu.

Radio station for lonely canines !

Berlin: When dogs get lonely, they sometimes keep themselves busy by wreaking havoc around the house. That's why one German radio host, who also happens to be a dog owner, came up with the idea for a 24/7 program designed to relax canine listeners and make them feel like they are not alone.

When 30-year old Stephan "Stocki" Stock, a radio moderator at RadioTon, in Germany's Baden-Württemberg region, announced the creation of a program aimed at dogs, everyone thought it was a clever April Fools prank. But it wasn't. For the past three and a half months, "Hallo Hasso" has been pumping out music for lonely pooches both on the radio and online. Stocki says he was inspired to create the special program by his pet dog, Layla, who would sometimes get so bored when left alone that she would keep herself busy by making a big mess and destroying things around the house. He and his colleagues started researching what kind of music usually appeals to dogs, and found — is little drum and electric guitar as possible, and should be very slow.

Never too old to Cosplay !

Brasília: Solange Amorim, a 50-year-old mother from Manaus, Brazil has been getting a lot of online attention lately for her ability to transform herself into popular cartoon characters and her courage to regularly attend cosplay vents, which usually appeal to youths.

Solange, who goes by Tia Sol on social media, discovered the wonderful world of cosplay when she started accompanying her daughter, Jessica, to local events. She fell in love with it immediately, but it wasn't until a few years ago, when a friend asked her if she had the courage to dress up as a cartoon character and involved in the cosplay community. "A friend asked me if I had the courage to do cosplay." I accepted the challenge. I won the bet, she had to pay the dressmaker for me." Her very first cosplay costume was that of Granny, from the Looney Toons, and it was so well done that she won first place. She loved the experience so much that she kept dressing up as cartoon characters.

Beet juice is very potent. Consuming too much can present a problem for those who are prone to oxalate kidney stones, in that beets are extremely high in oxalate. Ditto for kale. Even the healthiest of foods can have a negative effect.

Unscientific planting of tree-saplings on NH

Sir,

I am concerned about government planting tree-saplings on the NH (T. Narasipur Main Road) unscientifically even without thinking that the NH will get broader; at least in ten years it may become four-lane.

The saplings planted on either side of the road which is just 6 feet away from the road edge will definitely be chopped off. The top brass who has ordered this planting don't seem to have common sense that this road will be extended in future and these trees will be chopped off for road widening.

I spoke with the forest staff who was present there and he had no idea about this unscientific planting. His only aim was to plant trees, that's it.

My concern is that planting trees just 4 to 6 feet away from the NH may lead to more accidents. For example, if some car or bike tries to avoid hitting the front moving vehicle and steer their vehicle to the left side when they are in a medium speed chances are there they will may the full grown tree and lose their life.

Alleged violation of by-law: Notice issued to MDJA

Mysuru, July 27- The Fifth Additional Civil Court here yesterday issued notice to Mysuru District Journalists Association (MDJA) President, General Secretary and the Election Officer on a petition alleging violation of by-law while issuing MDJA poll notification.

With the MDJA polls scheduled for Aug. 13, Mysuru-based 'Hello Mysore' Editor T. Gururaj had moved the Court questioning the condition that those interested in contesting for the post of President, Vice-President, General Secretary, City Secretary, Rural Secretary and Treasurer, should have served as an Executive Committee Member of the Association at least for a period of one year.

Gururaj, in his petition, contended that the MDJA by-law had no such rule and the condition imposed was a clear violation of the by-law. Also the condition was aimed at taking away the rights of the Association Members for contesting the election, the petition said.

Gururaj also prayed the Court to grant a stay on the poll schedule and also to allow the Association Members to contest the polls without any restriction.

The Court, which heard Gururaj's plea, served a notice on the Association President K. Deepak, General Secretary K.J. Lokesh Babu and Election Officer Echanur Kumar, asking them to appear before the Court on Aug. 8, either in person or through an advocate.

Advocate Prithvi Kiran Shetty appeared for the petitioner Gururaj. As per the poll schedule, the MDJA election will take place on Aug. 13, for which the last date for filing of nominations ended yesterday (July 26). The last date for withdrawal of nomination papers is July 28.

Meanwhile, MDJA General Secretary Lokesh Babu has said that he had not received any notice from the Court regarding the poll schedule notification.

Miscreants divert attention, make away with Rs. 7 lakh cash

Victim Ganesh

Mysuru, July 27 (Ravi) - Businessman was easily duped by miscreants who diverted his attention and made away with hard cash of Rs. 7 lakh, here yesterday. The incident occurred in broad daylight and unfortunate victim was Ganesh, a rice-mill owner and the son of Shivarudrappa, a resident of Hullahalli in Nanjangud taluk.

Incident: Ganesh went to Canara Bank in the town around 10.20 am to draw money. After drawing Rs. 7 lakh, he has gone to his car parked under a tree on Ashoka Road. First, he thought of putting the bag containing the cash in the dickey, but changed his mind and put the bag on the back seat of the car and started the engine.

Meanwhile, an unidentified man came and drew his attention saying, "Sir, there are a lot of notes lying next to your car. How could you be so careless and drop so much of cash?"

Ganesh has panicked on hearing this and immediately got out of the car. Waiting for the opportunity, another miscreant appears, opens the back door and escapes with the bag containing the cash.

Ganesh started shouting for help, "Somebody has stolen my bag and is escaping, please help me." The other miscreant, who had drawn the attention of the victim, on the pretext of catching the culprit also escaped from the scene.

Ganesh has filed a complaint in the Nanjangud Town Police Station. Crime Branch Sub-Inspector Veerabhadrappa, who has registered the complaint, said that there are three or four persons who are involved in diverting the attention of the people and making away with cash. "We will intensify the investigation and arrest the miscreants at the earliest," he assured.

ACP Mohammad Sujeetha visited the spot and said that a separate team will be formed to nab the culprits.

CCTV footage: A CCTV installed at a hardware shop, located near the place where Ganesh had parked his car, has captured the whole incident. The Police have recovered the footage.

The footage shows about five persons waiting while the incident occurred and the Police suspect that it could be the same gang of miscreants. They have expressed confidence of nabbing the culprits at the earliest.

KSOU fake marks card racket

Three more non-teaching staff taken into custody

Mysuru, July 27 (RK&NNN)- The Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) fake marks card racket is taking a new turn every day. The CCB Police, who are investigating the racket, took three members of the KSOU Non-Teaching Staff Association into custody yesterday.

Suspecting that they are also involved in the degree and post-graduate degrees fake marks cards case, the Police are interrogating them. They are also looking into their mobile call recordings. Since one of the prime persons in the Association was subjected to interrogation, his relatives, supporters and friends had gathered in front of the CCB office yesterday. The incident is taking a more serious turn, in the light of five persons including Yashaswini being arrested, followed by three more persons, that too in the KSOU office itself, being taken into custody.

Meanwhile, the sprawling KSOU campus with swanky buildings on Mysuru-Hunsuru Road which draws the attention of everyone passing by, is wearing a deserted look. The lives of more than three lakh Open University students is at stake and it is sad to see that nothing much is happening except assurances being given by the University authorities.

Four from Tamil Nadu rescued from swirling Cauvery waters

Kollegal, July 27 (Nagendra)- Four members of a family from Tamil Nadu, who had come to visit Shivanasamudra near Sattegala in the taluk, had a miraculous escape when they were rescued by the villagers after they were found stranded in the middle of Cauvery river.

The four persons from Madurai in Tamil Nadu, including a woman, are Palaniappan, Tambi, Doreswamy and Pushpakumari. After visiting Bharachukki waterfalls, they offered puja at the Ranganathaswamy Temple near Shivanasamudra on Tuesday and around 2.30 pm, they had their lunch on the banks of Cauvery river.

Later, they leisurely got into the river for a swim and sat on the rocks in the middle of the river. To their chagrin, the water level started rising after the crest gates of a reservoir was opened to release excess storage of water. As the level rose, the stranded tourists panicked and shouted for help.

The local residents Yusuf and Kalaiah, who noticed the rising water level heard the shout for help and immediately summoned the help of their friends. They also informed the Kollegal Rural Police through mobile phone about the incident.

Instilling confidence in the tourists, the villagers brought a ladder and placed it on the rock where the tourists were sitting. They slowly stepped on the ladder and were saved from a near-death experience. The Rural Police advised the foursome not to get into such adventure in the future and bid them goodbye.

One of the Police Officer told Star of Mysore that people ignore warning boards put up on the riverbank and risk their lives. The Police have increased security at the riverbank to prevent recurrence of such incidents.

Honest auto driver returns purse with cash

Sayyed Habid

Mysuru, July 27- The autorickshaw drivers in the city are a berated lot. Rarely does one have a good word about them. However, there are exceptions and there are many instances where they have displayed their honesty winning the hearts of the passengers they drive around.

In one such incident, a woman who had left behind her purse containing cash and ATM card in an autorickshaw had a pleasant experience, when the driver returned it displaying his integrity and honesty.

Dr. Shobha Hebbar, a resident of Jayalakshmipuram, booked an 'Ola' autorickshaw on July 22 to go near KR Hospital. Within two minutes, the auto arrived. As she got into the auto she noticed that the OTP number and the Registration Number were not matching. She got suspicious and immediately got out of the auto and drove to her destination in her own two-wheeler.

Meanwhile, Dr. Shobha had left behind the purse containing more than Rs. 2,500 cash and an ATM card while she had got into the auto. She realised it only much later after finishing all her work. She tried searching for the auto and the driver for two days and finally was successful in tracing him after getting his phone number.

The driver Sayyed Habid on receiving the call told her that he had carefully preserved the purse and returned it to her.

A delighted Dr. Shobha told Star of Mysore that in her experience, she has found poor people to be more honest in spite of their poverty and expressed her confidence in majority of the autorickshaw drivers.

A Common Man's Doctor: Bellipadi Satish Rai

Offers FREE treatment for patients with Dengue, Chikungunya

The fear of widespread vector-borne diseases is spreading panic among the people. The hospitals, both government and private, are full with patients. Even though the scene is the same outside a private clinic in Siddarthanagar, the patients flocking the clinic are going back with great relief.

Sri Manjunatha Clinic on T. Narasipur Main Road (Male Mahadeshwara Road) in Siddarthanagar (near Mysore Dairy) is run by Dr. Bellipadi Satish Rai. Unlike many private hospitals and nursing homes who cash in on such bleak situations, Dr. Rai is treating the patients afflicted with Chikungunya and Dengue free of cost, since the past 25 days and setting an example for others to follow.

The people-friendly doctor, Dr. Rai is also distributing free medicines to very poor patients. He charges fees for patients who are economically sound and use it for the treatment of poor patients. The patients who are cured from the doctor's treatment, in turn tell it to others. Thus, by word of mouth, people flock to Dr. Rai's clinic. Since there is no particular treatment for Dengue, each doctor treats the patient based on his experience. Similarly, Dr. Satish Rai, using allopathic medicines, treats and cures the patients.

What is so unique about the treatment of Dr. Rai that he is able to cure the patients? There was Chikungunya scare in 2007 and Dengue scare in 2010 in Mysuru city. "Even I suffered from Dengue and it was a hellish experience. I tried my best to get a definite cure. I tried contacting many experts but could not get any information. Then I experimented with allopathic medicines through drip and within three days, I was cured. There were no side effects. The same method I am using for my patients," said Dr. Rai.

Does it mean one treatment cures all? Dr. Rai cautions. "It does not mean that this is a definitive cure for all patients. However, with the treatment I am giving, patients with Chikungunya and Dengue are getting cured," Dr. Rai told Star of Mysore.

MULTI-FACETED, MODEL DOCTOR

Dr. B. Satish Rai was born to a very rich family, who owned thousands of acres of land at Perne village in Puttur Taluk, Dakshina Kannada district. However, following the Land Reforms Act his father Narayana Rai lost all the properties in 1962 and the family was in dire straits. He lost his father in 1968 while he was doing his final year MBBS in Mysore Medical College. He was forced to earn his own money to complete the degree.

Hence, Dr. Rai started a clinic in Siddarthanagar and began private practice. He is continuing his practice in the same clinic since then. Along with practicing Medicine, he was also Home Guard Commandant for 25 years. A littérateur and a poet, he has produced 21 works. The ninth edition of his 'Gitamritha Vahini' is going to be released next month.

Through his Bellipadi Yaksha Samskrithika Trust, Dr. Rai, himself a Yakshagana artiste, is promoting this traditional art. Involving himself with other doctors and the Forest Department, he has spread awareness regarding health and environment.

A recipient of several awards including the three National ones — Best Publication in Kannada for Gitamritha Vahini (1995), President's Medal for Social Service (1999) and Dr. B.C. Roy Award (2008) — the 73-year-old Dr. Rai says:

"I am least bothered about what other people say. I am serving the poor to seek peace of mind in my profession. Many times, I have given my own blood to needy patients. Just like Dengue, people had suffered from Hepatitis-B a couple of years ago and they had panicked. I had organised hundreds of camps and enlightened the people that it was not a life- threatening disease. I am following the footsteps of my father Perne Narayana Rai who was an Ayurveda Pandit and treated the poor patients free. I was even forced to sell my site in Vijayanagar to stick to my principles of treating the poor and needy patients for free."

Though he is the elder brother of Forest Minister B. Ramanath Rai, this common man's doctor has not curried any favour from him and continues to serve the society. — SBD&NNN

'Counselling anxious patients is important'

People are scared of spread of viral diseases. There is also fear for life. Hence, it is very important to counsel such anxious patients psychologically and give them mental confidence. We must instil in them the confidence that they will be cured with medicines, says Dr. B. Satish Rai.

Every day nearly 350 patients from Udayagiri, Rajivnagar, Ghousianagar, Gayathripuram, Shanthinagar, Hunsur, Malavalli and Nanjangud come to my clinic. Majority will be cured within four to five days. If a patient is treated properly, then there is no need to be admitted to a hospital. Even if the white blood corpuscles has come down to less than 25,000 in patients, they can be treated with just medicines and cured, Dr. Rai explains.

Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa's suggestion to make Air Travel feasible from Mysuru

By K.B. Ganapathy, Editor-in-Chief

Mysuru, July 27- Senior Kannada litterateur and Saraswati Samman awardee Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa regretted that the Mysore Airport at Mandakalli that was established with much fanfare has no takers now. Expressing his concern over the languishing airport, he gave some of his ideas to develop the Airport and increase passenger and air traffic.

He was speaking after inaugurating "Krithika Lake View," a new layout developed by Bhima Properties on Gejjagalli Road near Dalvoy Lake (Nanjangud Road) yesterday.

Citing the statements of some officials who have said that people do not come to Mysore Airport and it would be a loss to operate flights from there, Dr. Bhyrappa opined that there may not be many takers if flights are restricted from Mysuru to Bengaluru. "The time-table of flights from Mysuru to the State capital must change. Along with Mysuru to Bengaluru, flights must be operated to Tier-2 cities like Hubballi, Mangaluru and the neighbouring State of Kerala," he said.

There are good airports in Mangaluru and Hubballi and there are a fleet of luxury buses that operate from Mysuru to Hubballi and there are three trains that travel between these two cities. "These trains and buses are always packed with people. At present, there is no train from Mysuru to Mangaluru but there are many luxury buses operating on the route. If air connectivity is established between Mysuru, Mangaluru and Hubballi, it will be a popular route as people can take flights to these places instead of buses," he opined. This will also enable people to save time, he said and added that they can also get connecting flights to other cities and also abroad.

Likewise, if flights are operated to Kerala where there is an international Airport in Kannur, just 185 kms from city, residents of Mysuru can travel to places including New Delhi, Ahmedabad and even abroad without any hassle, Dr. Bhyrappa said.

MLA G.T. Devegowda, Star of Mysore Editor-in-Chief K.B. Ganapathy, Confederation of Real Estate Developers' Associations of India State President Dr. V.K. After plastic-free city Green Mysuru Campaign

Envisages to plant 12,000 saplings this year

Mysuru, July 27 (US&SP)- After freeing the city from plastic, the District Administration has embarked on a mission to make roads in city and highways permanently green and Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep has sought the assistance of government and private organisations to accomplish this mission.

Addressing a meeting at his office here yesterday, Randeep said that the city having got the recognition of clean city devoid of plastic and garbage should be made greener by planting saplings which can grow for the next 50 years. He pointed out that a few organisations have volunteered to plant seed balls and Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) has floated a body 'Green Mysuru.' He observed that the co-operation of MCC and Forest Department too was vital to promote greenery.

Continuing, Randeep said that 100 parks and 100 schools with good infrastructure would be selected to plant saplings which can be nurtured and grown by the staff there. He directed MCC Commissioner G. Jagadeesha and DCF Hanumanthappa at the meeting to identify suitable places to plant the saplings.

Briefing the meeting, Jagadeesha said that 400 parks have been identified in city out of which 100 are small and tender has been invited from a private organisation to develop 75 parks.

Speaking on the occasion, Hanumanthappa opined that drip irrigation should be followed to retain plants green throughout the year and thus save consumption of water.

Participating in the discussions, Environmentalist Vasanth Kumar Mysoremath suggested that prominence should not be given only to plants that offer good shade but also provide food to animals and birds. However, Jagadeesha expressed apprehension on growing fruit-bearing plants in parks which may be problematic for visitors to park.

Summing up, Randeep said that a bigger green campaign is envisaged for 2018 but this year 12,000 saplings would be planted as scheduled in the plan of action rolling out from next month. He added that the green campaign would be planned on the lines of people's movement to rope in maximum number of people. However, he assured to go ahead in a planned way ensuring that the lung spaces are retained.

Abracadabra... Abracadabra...

By K.B. Ganapathy

India's Politician-Statesman

Nitish Kumar

The 'Mahaghatbandhan' in Bihar has collapsed. In a stunning development that has taken everyone by surprise, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar submitted his resignation to Governor Keshri Nath Tripathi last night. However, by way quirk of fate, today he is back as the Chief Minister by other means. He was sworn-in for the sixth time by the Governor at 10 am along with BJP's Sushil Kumar Modi as Deputy Chief Minister in a new alliance.

An unholy, opportunistic and a sinful alliance will not last long. Such alliances, ultimately, are bound to break up. If good individuals, those who live by moral values and have chosen politics with the sole intention of serving people, become Chief Ministers due to such sinful alliance, such Chief Ministers will not survive for a full term in office. This is one such example. Ultimately, they have to give up the position as "atonement" for their sins. Nitish Kumar has done just that.

Many years ago I had an opportunity to meet Nitish Kumar in person at Rajendra Kalamandira in Mysuru. The occasion was the National Convention of Janata Dal (United) for which many tall leaders of the party, including George Fernandes and Sharad Yadav, had come. Many people had told me and I have personally experienced that Nitish Kumar was an amiable honest politician.

Nitish Kumar's rise in Bihar's politics should not come as a surprise. In one way, the people of Bihar are lucky to have politicians like Nitish Kumar amidst them despite there being politicians like Lalu Prasad Yadav. He was instrumental in ending the highly corrupt 15-year rule of Lalu Prasad Yadav and that must be considered as his greatest political achievement.

I had visited Patna, the capital of Bihar, during the initial days of Nitish Kumar's Chief Ministership. I still remember what my taxi driver had told me. "When Lalu Prasad was the Chief Minister (later his wife Rabri Devi) nobody would dare walk or drive on the streets after dark. Criminals had a free run and they robbed people. Vehicles were waylaid and looted."

Looking back at the unholy "Mahaghatbandhan", it is surprising how Nitish Kumar, an honest politician who has always stood by values, could join hands with the most corrupt Lalu Prasad Yadav that too when the multi-crore Fodder Scam (where Lalu is the prime accused) is still in the Courts.

I could understand what the taxi driver said as I had read about the "Jungle Raj" of Bihar in the newspapers. I was aware of the utter lawlessness in Bihar during Lalu's regime. Bihar began to thrive and progress after Nitish Kumar took over as the Chief Minister, ending the Lalu's Evil Empire. He brought in new laws and amended old laws to ensure social order and to check corruption. One such law, I remember, is the law that enabled courts to deny bail to a corrupt officer who has been arrested. Secondly, the law enabled government to attach the ill-gotten properties like houses and buildings of corrupt officers and converted them into schools, orphanages, hospitals and libraries or for any other public convenience facility.

As soon as this stringent law was enforced, over 50 percent of the corrupt practices, that flourished during the previous Lalu Yadav's regime, came to an end and Nitish Kumar's administration was able to bring many corrupt officers to book. As corruption came under control, his government could ensure that basic facilities are provided to the people. Gradually, the State began to move towards the path of development.

By the way many years before B.S. Yeddyurappa, as BJP Chief Minister, introduced gifting of bicycles to girl students as an incentive to make them go to school, Nitish Kumar in Bihar had already introduced the cycle scheme successfully. Similarly, Nitish Kumar had also introduced the mid-day meal scheme.

Cornucopia of corruption, yet people of Bihar voted him back to power for 15 years and in 2015 with a majority of 80 seats.

There is also another principled stand taken by Nitish Kumar which many do not know. When he was a Railway Minister in Atal Bihari Vajpayee's Government in 1999, he emulated the high moral standard set for a politician by the former PM Lal Bahadur Shastri (when he was the Railway Minister), by resigning as a Railway Minister following the Gaisal train disaster. Nitish Kumar took the responsibility for the disaster and quit without demur.

Unfortunately, in 2015, through the "Mahaghatbandhan", Nitish Kumar joined hands with the Lalu whose corrupt government he had earlier overthrown.

In his column, India's senior journalist T.J.S. George wrote about Lalu as follows: "...No Indian politician has so openly misused power. Nor has any other leader pushed the family into power with the same 'I-am-the-proprietor' attitude. Lalu has been a synonym for corruption in unique ways — the only leader who breaks laws with defiance and daring." Star of Mysore had published George's column on Tuesday, 25th July, 2017.

Continuing on Lalu, George says, "...Left to himself, Lalu Prasad would think it perfectly natural for Rabri Devi to become President of the country, Misa to become Prime Minister, Tejashwi the Home Minister with additional charge of Industries, Finance and Information, Tej Pratap the Chief Minister of Bihar, and daughters Rohini, Ragini, Chanda, Hema, Rajalakshmi and Dhannu to be named Ambassadors to the world's big powers. He would want nothing for himself except his formal portrait to hang in all government offices as the most loving husband and father in Indian history."

Looking back at the unholy "Mahaghatbandhan", it is surprising how Nitish Kumar, an honest politician who has always stood by values, could join hands with the most corrupt Lalu Prasad Yadav that too when the multi-crore Fodder Scam (where Lalu is the prime accused) is still in the Courts.

One more point to ponder is that anyone in Nitish Kumar's Catch 22 situation, would have either dropped corruption-tainted Deputy Chief Minister Tejashwi Yadav from his Cabinet or would have recommended the dissolution of the Assembly to the Governor. But by resigning, Nitish Kumar has stood his moral ground and sacrificed his office in the interest of the State and country. This move by Nitish Kumar is worthy of emulation by every patriotic, honest politician.

The BJP's move to offer unconditional support to Nitish Kumar, who has severed ties with a corrupt person and his party RJD, is commendable. This will strengthen the hands of Nitish Kumar in his war against corruption and efforts to focus on development of Bihar.

Nitish Kumar back as CM

Tejashwi Yadav contended that as Bihar's largest party, his Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) should be given first chance at Government formation. He drew a blank at the Raj Bhawan and sat on protest outside the Governor's residence, threatening to go to Court.

"There was no scandal before this, I tried to make it work for as long as I could," Nitish Kumar said after handing his resignation to the Governor. "My conscience would not allow me to continue," he said. Responding to the move this morning, Congress Vice-President Rahul Gandhi said, "The problem with Indian politics is that people will do anything for selfish gains."

Reacting to the developments, RJD Chief Lalu Yadav said that BJP was fooling the nation. He accused Nitish Kumar of planning the break-up in "cahoots with the BJP" and has accused him of cheating voters. Their Grand Alliance or the 'Mahaghatbandhan,' he said, got a massive mandate on an anti-BJP plank and has challenged Nitish Kumar to face voters again in an election. He has also said the RJD will protest in Parliament.

"They (BJP) wanted to pin the blame on Tejashwi. They were afraid that Tejashwi would come up as a worthy opponent in 2019. This is a conspiracy by Amit Shah and Narendra Modi. This is nothing but political vendetta," Lalu alleged.

Icons for Vajranabhi

Vajranabhi, son of Aniruddha, grandson of Pradyumna, and great-grandson of Krishna, was king of Mathura and leader of the Yadava clan. He had heard a lot about Krishna, lovingly called Shyam, and so wondered how his illustrious ancestor actually looked. Sadly, no one he knew in Vraja had actually seen him. So Vajranabhi went to the city of Hastinapur, in Kurukshetra, on the banks of the Ganga, and wondered if anyone there had seen him. "I was too young when he came here," said King Parikshit, son of Abhimanyu, grandson of Arjuna, the great Pandava.

"I remember him," said Parikshit's mother, Uttara, now the old dowager, bent on a stick. She explained how Krishna had protected Parikshit, while he was still in her womb, from being injured by weapons hurled by Drona's son, Ashwatthama, who had killed every other child of the Pandavas. She then proceeded to describe Krishna.

Uttara's description of Krishna was so spectacular that Vajranabhi commissioned many artists to capture the beauty of Krishna in stone. He told them all that he heard from Uttara, his voice capturing her passion. But the beauty was so grand, so transcendent, that not one of the artists captured it completely. Some captured the beauty of his fingers, some the beauty of his toes, some the beauty of his smile.

Vajranabhi worshipped all these images. Over time these images were taken by devotees to different parts of India and now we know them by various names: Banke Bihari of Vrindavan who holds the flute and bends like a dancer; the four-armed Ranchor-rai of Dakor in Gujarat, who withdrew from the battlefield; Srinath-ji of Nathdvara in Udaipur who holds aloft the Govardhan mountain; Sakshi Gopal of Odisha who bears witness to his devotees; Vitthala of Pandharpur in Maharashtra, who waits, arms akimbo, for his devotees; Krishna of Udupi in Karnataka who holds the cowherd staff and turned around for his devotees; Balaji of Tirumalai in Andhra who waits atop the seven hills for Lakshmi; Ranganatha of Shrirangam in Tamil Nadu who reclines like Vishnu on the Ocean of Milk; and Guruvayur-appan in Kerala, the child who appeared with four arms. These icons anchor the Bhagavata culture of Hinduism.

Is this story true? For devotees it is true. Whenever they see a sacred image of Krishna in a temple, they feel they have seen a portion of Krishna's transcendental beauty. And that fulfils them. Historians will not see this story as fact, as it is based on faith, not evidence. For them, it is simply a cultural imaginary.

Likewise, there are many places in the world associated with other sacred figures. There are places with Buddha's footprint. In the Buddhist world, there are places with Buddha's relics such as his tooth and his hair. In Myanmar, there is even a stupa that claims to be the resting place of left testicle; there is a separate shrine for the right. In Saudi Arabia, there are caves that mark the place where the Prophet Muhammad had his first revelation (ultra-conservative Islamic forces forbid people from granting this place special status). In Jerusalem, there are churches that mark when Christ was buried. None of these can be proven historically. But they are markers of faith that gives meaning to the lives of the faithful.

Yaduveer initiates adoption of Govt. School by St. Philomena's College

Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar is seen launching the 'Smart Attendance App' of the Government School in city recently as St. Philomena's College alumnus Deepak Roy, Msgr. Leslie Moras, Episcopal Vicar and others look on.

Mysuru, July 27- Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar recently initiated the academic adoption of Government Higher Primary School by St. Philomena's College and the launch of 'smart attendance app'.

Deepak Roy, Founder CEO of Genius Lead, UK-based company who was also an alumnus of St. Philomena's College has created this handy app which enables fast access of attendance status to both teachers and students. This app will be provided to several government schools free of cost.

As part of outreach programme, the Department of Social Work will academically adopt Government Higher Primary School at Kesare. The programme has been initiated by Msgr. Leslie Moras, Episcopal Vicar, St. Philomena's College.

This helps in the utilisation of resources in the college. Various faculty members and students will be taking time to teach the school children English, basic Mathematics, basic Science etc.

Addressing the gathering, Yaduveer spoke about how happy he was to revisit old links his family had with various institutions across Mysuru and learn about the contributions his ancestors have made. He mentioned that the 'Smart attendance app' fits the current era perfectly as apps have become a necessity these days.

Technology helps in bridging the gap between government schools and other private schools, he felt.

Deepak, the creator of 'Smart attendance app' said that this app would replace all the attendance books as one could take attendance right on the smart phone. The absentees' data would be instantly available and all the reports could be viewed online.

The app does not just help save time in data entry but will also save costs and employee time. He also stressed about how the app would help in saving the environment, as it is a paperless technology.

Msgr. Leslie Moras and former Principal Prof. M. Krishne Gowda also spoke. Block Education Officer Vivekananda, Msgr. Marie Joseph, Administrator, Rev. Fr. Bernard Prakash Barnis, Rector and Principal Dr. Ruth Shanthakumari were present.

CII holds discussion on strife-free workplace

Assistant Labour Commissioner A.C. Thammanna (centre) is seen releasing the Corporate Compliance Handbook as (from left) K. Anantha Gowda, Neeraj Debey, V.J.K. Nair, President, CITU, H.V. Anantha Subbarao, State President, AITUC, Arjun Ranga, CII Chairman, Mangalamba Rao, VP, BMS, S. Sathyamurthy, Leader – Karnataka, INTUC and Dr. N Muthukumar look on.

Mysuru, July 27- The Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) had recently organised a discussion on 'creating an equitable and strife-free workplace'. The event was organised at Country Inn & Suites where several trade and industry union leaders participated.

CII Chairman Arjun Ranga said that every industry has to be strife-free and everyone deserves a happy workplace. Regretting that Mysuru lost its chance of being a Smart City, he said, "that was unfortunate. We need to realise the value of it and Mysuru has to be smart as a community and industry and also have smart people to grow positively."

H.V. Anantha Subbarao, President-Karnataka, All India Trade Union Congress said that a strife-free workplace was something the country has been demanding since many years now. The industrial growth and role of trade unions have a major impact on workers, he felt.

"The contributions of trade unions are recognised for better environment and proper productivity. Unions have actually given tallest leaders for the country which people fail to notice. Bad and opportunistic practices by managements are a threat to the country and trade unions always work towards the economic, social and intellectual progress of workers," he added.

V.G.K. Nair, President, Centre of Trade Union spoke about the need to communicate and debate when the issues related to workers come to the forefront and only then we can have a strife-free workplace. "Payment of proper wages, sharing profit and payment of bonus are matters to be concentrated upon by the firms. If industrialists don't make an equitable method by which issues can be solved, then nothing can change. Hence, the employers' association should sit together and negotiate with unions and resolve issues," he said.

CII Past Chairman Dr. N Muthukumar said "Most of us today are in organised sectors and there is a lot of exploitation in many places. But the fundamental problem is that we fail to focus on customer satisfaction and rather end with differences among ourselves in the name of unions, workers and employers."

On the occasion, Assistant Labour Commissioner of Mysuru A.C. Thammanna released the Corporate Compliance Handbook which guides statutory compliance.

Youths protest against corruption at VVWW

Mysuru, July 27 (RKB&KS)- Urging action against corrupt Vani Vilas Water Works (VVWW) Engineers & contractor, demanding to rectify mistake in second standard Kannada textbook and to rectify the snag of the online registration portal of Kattada Karmikara Kalyana Mandali, various organisations staged separate protests at many places in yesterday.

Paduvarahalli Srigandha Yuvakara Sangha: Alleging corruption of crores of rupees pertaining to the works taken up to plug leakages between 2012 and 2015, about 35 members of Paduvarahalli Srigandha Yuvakara Sangha staged a protest in front of VVWW in Yadavagiri here.

The protesters, who alleged that during 2012 to 2015, Rs. 3.42 crore worth works to stop water leakages were given to only one contractor, said that there was no rain at that time and the city was reeling under severe scarcity of water. They said that when there was no water to supply, how can there be leakages and alleged that the works were taken up just to loot taxpayers money.

The protesters also questioned that when there are many contractors at VVWW, why only one contractor was given the works continuously and added that there was a huge racket behind it and urged the Government to initiate probe besides taking action against corrupt officials in VVWW.

Ramakrishna, Dyavappanayaka, Madesh, Prabhakar, Rajesh and others were present.

Bahujan Vidyarthi Sangha (BVS): Urging the Government to recall second standard Kannada textbooks where it has been wrongly mentioned that it was Sir M. Visvesvaraya who had built KRS Dam, when it should have been Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, about 50 persons under the banner of Bahujan Vidyarthi Sangha staged a protest in front of Crawford Hall.

The protesters said that a lesson in second standard Kannada textbook states that it was Sir M. Visvesvaraya, who was the Dewan, during the erstwhile ruler of Mysuru Kingdom Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, who had built the KRS Dam and added that it was Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar who built the dam by selling his jewellery to fund for the construction of the dam.

They said that such mistakes was giving wrong information to the students and urged the State Government to recall the textbooks, rectify the mistake and issue new textbooks to the students.

BVS District Organiser Sosale Siddaraju, City Organiser Ganesh Murthy, Historian P.V. Nanjaraja Urs, Karnataka Ursu Mandali President Nandeesh Urs, littérateur Bannur K. Raju, Ramegowda, Bhanu Mohan, Shabbir Mustafa of SDPI and others were present.

Karnataka Rajya Kattada mathu Ethara Nirmana Karmikara Federation: About 50 members of the Federation staged a protest in front of the DC's office here urging the Kattada Karmikara Kalyana Mandali to rectify the online registration portal, which has developed snag.

The protesters alleged that the web portal through which they have to register their names had developed a snag and they are struggling since many days to register their names, which has denied their earnings.

They alleged that if 150 people go to register their names only four people were getting registered after trying many times, which is not only wasting their time but also a loss to them. Stating that they cannot leave their work and stand all day to register their names, they urged for speedy rectification of the web portal.

They also alleged that though the Chief Minister had announced schemes, which gives security to construction workers in the Budget, it has not been implemented till date besides demanding release of funds for pension, medical and other schemes meant for them and to provide scholarships from first standard itself, as done in Goa.

Federation District Committee President N.K. Balaji Rao, Gen. Secretary H.M. Basavaiah, Manjunath and others were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Litotes

Meaning: Rhetoric, understatement, especially that in which an affirmative is expressed by the negative of its contrary, as in "not bad at all."

Origin: Litotes may be familiar nowadays only to those who read Cicero's orations in high school. The Greek noun lītótēs has the general meaning "plainness, simplicity," and as a rhetorical term "assertion by understatement or negation." A famous example of assertion by negation occurs in the New Testament (Acts 21:39), where St. Paul says that he is "...a citizen of no mean city" (Tarsus in Cilicia), that is, that Tarsus was an important city. Meiosis in its rhetorical sense is often used as a synonym for litotes, but meiosis is restricted to understatement rather than the double negative. Litotes entered English in the mid-17th century.

THE ODD WORD

Precip

Shortened form of precipitation; drizzle; rain.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Raining stair-rods

Meaning: Raining very heavily.
Origin: This is a colloquial North of England expression. Stair-rods are the metal rods that hold stair-carpets in place on each step. The allusion is to rain which is so heavy as to appear like falling stair-rods.

QUOTE BOX

There is no greater agony than bearing an untold story inside you.
